in recognition of accomplishments achieved during the Clinical Science, Technology and Medicine Summer Internship at the Stanford University School of Medicine. Between July 15 and July 19, 2024 our program participants gained hands-on experience with clinical and life-support skills. Having received direct mentorship from attending physicians, ePatients, design-thinking experts, and medical students from Stanford University, our program participants produced a capstone project that embodies the core values at the Stanford Anesthesia Summer Institute.
